To realize its objectives our Foundation mainly connects Serbian Academic institutions to highly reputable European and American institutions by initiating and setting up platforms for long lasting cooperation. In this way, it opens doors to the World for Serbian young academics.

The collaborations the Foundation has already initiated and established are:

Cooperation with Nottingham University

In June 2006 HRH Crown Prince Alexander II invited Sir Colin Campbell, Vice-Chancellor of the University of Nottingham and a delegation of professors to visit Belgrade. This visit aimed to generate a platform for an academic cooperation between the University of Nottingham and the University of Belgrade, as well as with other universities in Serbia.

The main topics were scholarships, know-how for the creation of a Career Centre at the University of Belgrade, cooperation in research, exchange of professors.

1. Sir Colin Campbell announced that his Academic Institution will be providing 40 scholarships in the amount of 50 Million Dinars (600 000 Euros) to the best Serbian students who decide to continue their education at the University of Nottingham for the academic years 2006-2007 and 2007-2008.

Sixteen top students already left for UK in September 2006 and January 2007 and will spend the next academic year for postgraduate studies, (Master and PhD degree), in Nottingham. The University of Nottingham covered their tuition fees and the Fund for Young Talents of Serbia and the Foundation of Prince Alexander for Culture and Education provided them with funds for accommodation, living and travel expenses.

2. Nottingham is also offering its know how for the creation of a Centre for Career Development in Serbia that was initiated by the Foundation of Crown Prince Alexander for Culture and Education. The Centre was founded by the University of Belgrade and opened its doors for all the students of the Belgrade University at the premises of the Faculty of Law in December 2006.

The creation of the Centre for Career Development at university level aims at providing students and graduates with assistance and advice on finding the appropriate jobs and enabling them to explore employment opportunities during the studies and upon graduation. Beside the information and counselling services, the Centre offers the students the opportunity to gain practical skills through different workshops and internships, as well as with access to an on-line virtual guide on its web site www.razvojkarijere.bg.ac.yu which is under construction.

As soon as the Centre proves its efficiency and value, it will deliver its know-how to other state Universities and assist them in setting up their own Career Centers for the benefit of local communities.

Cooperation between American and Serbian Art Universities

Annual report – 2008

Scholarships programme

Our flagship, scholarship programme included competitions for 4 scholarships for postgraduate studies in 2008. The universities that offered scholarships through our Foundation include Loyola University Chicago, Hellenic American University in Athens and MIP Politecnico di Milano School of Management. The significant decrease in number of provided scholarships were due to discontinuation of cooperation with Nottingham University, which offered 20 full tuition scholarships per year. No official explanation was given.

During May more than 50 letters were sent to universities in the world asking them to allocate scholarships to students from Serbia through our Foundation. These efforts were in vain as the received response explained that they respect the work carried out by Crown Prince Alexander and his Foundation, but that they could not award scholarships to exclusively students from Serbia as they are awarding scholarships on an equal basis to students irrespective of personal characteristics, without special quotas for selected geographical regions.
